

Nap Time

MOSAIC THERAPY
Building healthy Families

Thank you to our sponsors!

A regular sleep schedule helps your child feel safe and comfortable. Record your own meditation to help ease your child into sleep. This tool can be helpful if you have more than one person taking care of your child like parents and babysitters.

Supplies

recording device (tape recorder, phone, etc.)

calm song

relaxation script

How to do it

1. Pick a calm song that your child knows and likes.
2. Review the relaxation script provided. Make changes, as you need to in order to feel comfortable with the material.
3. Create the recording of:
 - a. song
 - b. you reading the relaxation script
 - c. song again.
4. Explain to your child that you will play this recording at nap time and bed time.
5. Be firm and kind if your child doesn't listen to your directions the first time. Separating from the family in order to rest is a tough skill but one that is very important for your child to learn.

Script

Lie down, close your eyes, and take a deep breath in. Now breathe out. Breathe in . . . and breathe out. Keep breathing slowly like this. Feel how it relaxes you to breathe deeply.

Now squeeze your hands closed into fists. Pretend that you are squeezing an orange in each hand, gripping tighter, squeeze even tighter. Right now, your muscles are tense. And now relax. Let your hands go limp. Now your hands feel relaxed. See how relaxed your hands feel? See how tense feels different from relaxed? Relaxation is a way to make your whole body feel relaxed like your hands are now.

One way to relax your body is by breathing deeply. Imagine that your body is like a balloon. When you breathe in, feel your chest and sides expanding, like a balloon filling with air.

When you breathe out, imagine your body is like a balloon shrinking with the air being let out. Breathe in like a balloon being blown up. Now breathe out, like the air is being let out of a balloon. Let the air out by blowing the air through your mouth. Breathe in through your nose, imagining your body expanding like a balloon. Now imagine letting the end of the balloon go, and the air rushing out as you breathe out through your mouth.

As you breathe in this time, raise your arms above your head. When you breathe out, lower your arms. Breathe in. Reach your hands above your head, stretching high up . . . stretching . . . and now lower your arms to your sides and relax. Breathe out.

Raise your arms and breathe in. Lower your arms and breathe out. Raise your arms and breathe in. Lower your arms and breathe out. Now relax and keep your arms at your sides, while you continue breathing slowly and deeply.

Remember the difference between tense and relaxed. Tighten your leg muscles to make both of your legs tense. Squeeze tighter . . . tighter. Now relax. Let your legs become very relaxed. Each leg is as floppy as a piece of string. Your legs feel heavy. The muscles are loose.

Now tense your arms. Make the muscles very tight and tense. Tighter. Now relax. Your arms are relaxed, limp and loose as pieces of string. See how it feels to be relaxed? Your legs and arms are relaxed.

Now let your whole body become relaxed. See how relaxed you can make your body, loosening every muscle. No tension at all. Your body feels heavy and relaxed. Relax even more by noticing your breathing again. See how calm your breathing is? In and out. In and out. Keep breathing and simply relax. You are now ready to go into a secret garden of sleep.
